About Stockmar

Nearly 80 years have passed since Hans Stockmar founded our company. Almost 80 years of innovation!

To ensure the development of products that are in keeping with these principles Stockmar has always selected the finest raw materials and manufacturing procedures. In cooperation with an independent institute, all raw materials are carefully selected and the manufacturing techniques controlled. This guarantees that Stockmar products are harmless to health and the environment.

For all Stockmar products, the selection and combination of primary colours is based on the natural graduation of the twelve-part colour-circle, in accordance with Goethe's colour theory. This twelve-part colour-circle represents the natural progression of the colour spectrum - from yellow through red, blue and green, then back to yellow. The visible colours of the prismatic band can be broken down into the three primary colours - red, blue and yellow - and by combining these colours, we get all other visible colours.
